

URBANDADDY

Trademark Kind of Has Everything
Coffee, Booze and Exorbitant Sandwichry in Midtown

New rule: when things hide other things, you end up with fried-chicken sandwiches and cocktails by the incomparable Pam Wiznitzer.

We're going to put it into effect today, and it's probably only going to apply to Trademark Taste & Grind, which is an aromatic coffeehouse up front and a charmingly eclectic bar and comfort food (menu) spot through a corridor to the back. It's open now.

And now we're going to show it to you, along with a fried-chicken sandwich topped with soppressata, and other things you're soon to have a frustrating craving for. This will happen via the magic of photography. Step into our slideshow...

TRADEMARK
taste + grind